Our School Insignia

The symbols of our school pin depict specific historical meaning.

The column stands for learning. It is a greek column reminding us of the medical schools of Greece where Hippocrates, the father of modern medicine, taught.

The serpent, which has become the symbol of the medical profession was once considered an important drug. It was popularly believed that medical skill could be gained by eating some parts of the serpent. This is why snakes were tended in the sanctuaries of Aesculapius, the God of healing.

The Star of David, symbol of Judaism, stands over it all with the watchful eye of God in the center of the star.

The Latin inscription on the pin is: "Haud ignara mal miseris succurrere disco" which means "I learn to nurse in order to help the sick."

Dedication . . .

During our three years at Beth, we have met many people and have established friendships that will remain with us always. But you above all, Dr. Kaufman, we shall remember with deep affection as our Health Director, our Doctor, and our friend. Your warm, friendly manner, your personal interest and genuine concern toward our welfare has been felt by all of us. How can we ever thank you for the kind and conscientious attention you have given us?

Because you are the wonderful man we know, we feel confident that you will realize the respect and admiration each of us hold for you, as we dedicate to you, Doctor Jerome G. Kaufman, with all our love, the Bethian—1960.

With Sincere Thanks

The senior delegates would like to pay special tribute to the person who helped us most through many sessions of the general assembly. She is the one who really went out of her way to help us make the 1960 session of "The Bethian" possible. She will always be remembered as a good friend and helpful instructor. Thank you, from the bottom of our hearts, Miss Jean Hirsh, R.N., our class adviser.

We would like to extend our thanks to the Women's Auxiliary of Newark Beth Israel Hospital, and the Alumnae Association of the Newark Beth Israel Hospital School of Nursing. You have given us so much, it would be impossible to enumerate all the things you have done. Educational opportunities and our cultural scope as well as recreational opportunities have been a valuable part of your contribution. Your enthusiasm and interest in all facets of our growth has known no limits.

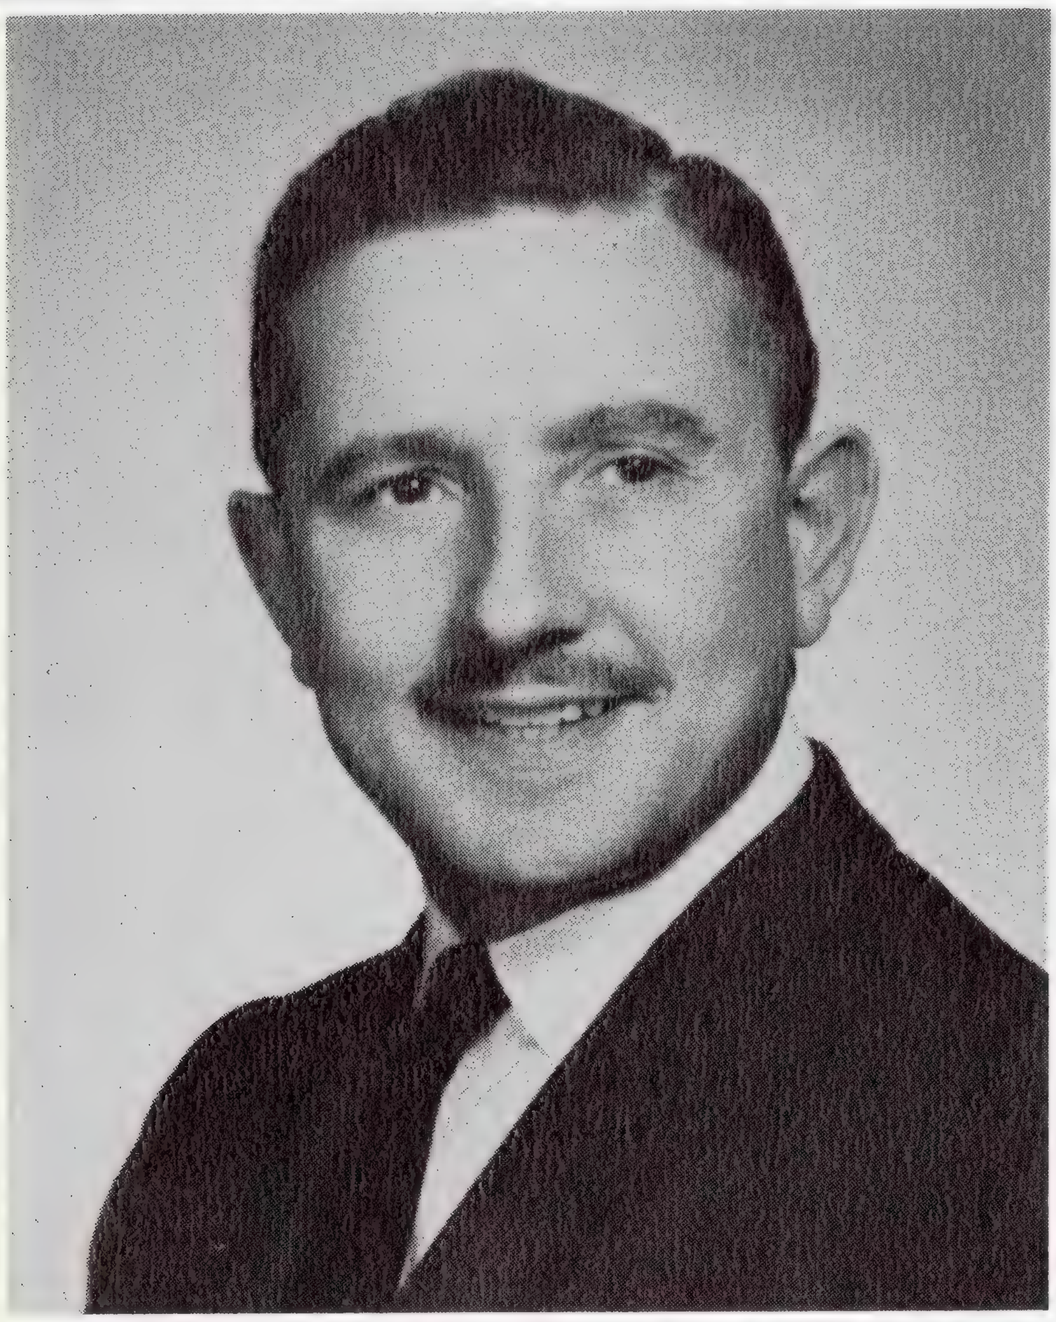
Directors Past and Present



J. A. ROSENKRANTZ, M.D.
Director

I. E. BEHRMAN
Past Director

The year of 1959 brought to N.B.I.H. many changes. Mr. I. E. Behrman, former director of the hospital retired after twenty-five years and was succeeded by Dr. J. A. Rosenkrantz. Our new director brings with him thirteen years of hospital administrative experience. He is a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University. He has written extensively in the field of hospital administration and has published many medical and scientific papers.

Dr. J. A. Rosenkrantz takes great interest in all our patients, and does much to promote interpersonal relations. His smile is a trademark of the warmth he brings to patients and hospital personnel. We are glad you have become a member of the N.B.I.H. family.

Our past director, Mr. Behrman, leaves us with much to be remembered. During his administration many things were accomplished, among them were the new laboratory building, cobalt therapy department and the starting plans of the renervation of the hospital. His smiling face and genuine interest in us as students will never be forgotten. We will always think of you, Mr. Behrman, as our friend. As for the past twenty-five years you have been to all the graduations of the student nurses, we hope succeeding graduations will be honored by your presence.

Annals of the

The organization of our class really began on September third in 1957.

We soon learned that for the next three years we would be united as one, working for a common cause.

Our first meeting was held in the living room of the nurses' residence. Here we became acquainted with "The Executives" and other "Delegates" of Beth Israel. Later that evening our "Big Sisters" held a party in our honor. Their colorful stories of past events made us look forward with anticipation and suspense to our experiences.

In order to become aware of what each area had to offer we explored the subjects of Anatomy, Physiology, Chemistry, Pharmacology, Microbiology, Social Sciences, and Nursing Arts. These gave us a firm foundation on which to build our future goal.

At this time we also matured as we learned to live and work with others. We found our class was well represented throughout the eastern part of the country—Naomi and her Pennsylvania drawl and Roberta our delegate from upstate New York. However, we can even claim to be international: "Vive La France, Beate!"

We found out, too, that Mary Ann was a real "Campus Queen." It seems she spent each of her weekends on a different "Ivy League" campus.

Even with our studies we still found time to rehearse for the annual Christmas-Chanukah show. But, even with all those tiresome rehearsals, we never did get that leg act quite right. Did we girls?

As the days flew and our "home-made calendars" became shorter and shorter, we eagerly awaited capping. That memorable night, with candles glowing, we took the FlorenceNightingale pledge and our mingled tears of joy and sorrow will never be forgotten.

Specialties and new classes now stood on the agenda. Our delegates were now being sent to different parts of the hospital to learn of the varied methods used to maintain World Health.

Class time was becoming shorter and shorter and our clinical experiences grew. At last vacation time came. Three wonderful weeks of leisure! Camp Friedman in upstate New York found many representatives of Beth Israel at its doorstep. We don't think Cindi, Faye, and Arlene will ever forget Camp Friedman. You will never forget your wonderful week there, Bev.

Vacation doesn't last forever and we looked forward to returning to "Beth". Our own "Little Sisters" would be arriving soon and our plain white caps now sported beautiful blue bands.

Another season was upon us and in January our class had its first taste of separation. Greystone was the new scene for some of our "delegates". How many varied stories Mary and Janet came home with. Will Gibson ever forget that broken ampule? We won't Gibby! Then there was the time Genny thought for sure her long hair was short. False alarm Gen. We wonder why Golden's prayers for extra passes were never answered.

Meanwhile, back at the homefront our course in Obstetrics really made us feel proud to be women. Remember how Koza and Stephie talked for hours about the wonderful feeling it was to hear a newborn's first cry?

Soon Pediatrics followed and Lauretta's home experience with her many brothers and sisters certainly helped in caring for some of the children. But decorating at Christmas time and that exciting party sure seemed to lift their spirits. It was even fun for us, right Shirl?

On June eighth, our whole class felt full of pride as Holly took the oath as President of Student Organization.

Summertime rolled around once more and some of our members were far away on a one month vacation. Again we had much to look forward to upon returning. Even though you feel you need a rest, getting back into the swing of things is something we all craved. Best of all we were now Seniors and those thick black bands made graduation seem much closer. We felt proud and humble to be the "Heads of State" yet we knew we had much to do in order to set the proper example for the rest of the assembly. It was good to know that we could help others in becoming part of our united family.

Could you believe it, Dell, was assigned to be on Judiciary? You finally got on the right side of them, Dell.

Remember how happy we all were when Gwen became Mrs. James Ashley. We never could learn to change your nickname from "Smitty" to "Ashley."

We still had a long way to go. We thought for sure the year would drag, but the work on the yearbook seemed to keep most of us occupied. Also, Ginger and Myra started their tour of night duty and now the time seemed to really fly. Evening duty, too, seemed to keep some of our delegates out of contact for awhile, but not for long.

The New Year rolled around and how excited we were as we started to pick out our uniforms for graduation. What a feeling to be dressed all in white.

With the beginning of Senior Classes our delegates were together once again. For the first time in two years we really felt like "one big happy family." Classes were soon over and as spring turned into summer graduation no longer seemed a dream, but a true and wonderful reality.

Let's not forget, too, that our class gift to the school would never have been possible without Mickey's capable management of our Senior Fund Raising Committee.

As the time approached, we realized that a hospital can be compared to a United Nations. Without the co-operation of all the members thinking and working together to heal the sick, the job would never get done. Just as with the United Nations we must think and work together for the common good.

That memorable day finally arrived and with tears in our eyes and pride in our hearts, twenty-three student nurses proudly received their school pin and diploma.

We had reached our long awaited goal, but even with our happiness we felt sad to know that our united assembly would no longer be together as one. We would all travel on to different parts of the country, or even the world; but no matter where or what field of nursing we choose, we would still be a United group, working for the common good of the United Nations of the world.

How could we ever forget our instructors who have guided us through our first faltering steps? You gave us the foundation for our professional knowledge, but more than that, you have left us with a part of yourselves.

As we continue to grow as professional nurses and as people we will always have a thankful prayer in our hearts for that which you have instilled in us—"The humility and pride of a nurse and of a human being capable of helping others."

"God could not be everywhere,
so He made parents."

To you, Mom and Dad, we say thank you. As professional nurses, be it near or far, our thoughts will always be of you.

You are two people who have lived with our tears of joy and sorrow. Your abundance of generosity, unfailing love and faith will help us strive to accomplish the things that will make you proud to call us your own.

And now that our dreams have come true, we will continue to strengthen your faith in us by doing for others as you have done for us.

Your loving daughters,
The Class of 1960

Memories

Many is the hours I've spent on thee
With happy thoughts of days gone by,
All thru my life I'll treasure thee
Happy book of past good-byes.
Many is the hour I'll sit and look
At the pictures printed in this book,
And all the memories which are so dear
Will be united with yesteryear.
So little book with filled up pages
Life goes on thru the ages,
From girlhood dreams to a woman's delite
May you always be within my sight
For wherever I'll wander, wherever I'll be I'll always have these memories.
